

- What do I want to learn or understand better?

I want to get practical experience in applying the Scrum techniques, which we have not yet been able to do for real since we haven't started our first sprint. However, next week it will be interesting to start working with Scrum for real

- how can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

By staying active in the team discussions I will be able to share my opinions, and also learn things from others that I haven't thought of

- what is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

The practical part of the course this week has not focused that much on Scrum, since we have not started working on the project itself, but rather on formulating the project in discussion with the product owner. Next week, we will be starting our first real sprint, and we will then get to follow the Scrum framework more directly.

- what is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

We've had team meetings and together with the other team members we have been in contact with a product owner and formulated our project scope in discussion with the product owner. I have also together with the other team members worked with the business model canvas.
